Using ProQuest Newsstand

Perform a keyword search. Use the add a row option to build multiple keywords into your search, as illustrated below. Use the publication date limit to search only for articles published within the most recent six months, as required by the assignment.

!ProQuest Newsstand Advanced Search Example

Filter the search results list to see only articles published in newspapers.

!ProQuest Newsstand Search Results
Identify an article of interest. Click on full text to view it in its entirety.

Note that this database provides only text files. You will not see photos, charts, or other visual material that may have accompanied the original publication.

Click on the details tab and scroll down to locate an article’s permanent URL. This is helpful to have when you’re collecting many possibilities that you want to return to later.